BAI Banking Outlook Special Report:
The Top Banking Trends and Challenges for 2022
We recently conducted research to better understand the trends and challenges facing financial services organizations in 2022 and beyond. We questioned both financial services leaders and their customers, including different customer generations.

Those questions included:

- Are customers open to new banking players?
- How are channel preferences shifting and what is the impact on the branch network?
- What key investments should financial service organizations be making to improve CX in 2022?
- How are customers attitudes about banking relationships changing?
The Customer Landscape

To better understand the landscape facing financial services leaders, we took a look at the current customer landscape. Customer habits, attitudes and actions all differ by age group.

Growing Competition

While large banks are still preferred across all age groups, Gen Z and Millennials are much more likely to consider a direct bank. They are also more likely to have their money with multiple financial services organizations. Traditional financial services organizations need to be prepared for this growing competition.

We asked customers

Who is your primary financial services organization?

We asked customers

Do you bank with only one financial services organization?

We asked customers

Would you consider banking with a nontraditional financial services organization?

57% of consumers would consider banking with Amazon, Apple, PayPal or another nontraditional organization.
Low Fees Rule

Customers of all generations look for the lowest fees when choosing a financial services organization. Secondary reasons varied by age group, with answers ranging from cash incentives to branch location.

We asked customers

Why would you choose a new primary financial services organization?

The Top Business Trends for 2022

Knowing what is “the next big thing” will help you think, plan and prioritize for the months ahead. Financial services leaders and customers, however, are not always on the same page regarding the top priorities.

Rising Cryptocurrency

Few financial services organizations plan to accept or offer cryptocurrency (bitcoin, dogecoin, etc.), despite more customers investing in it, particularly Gen Z and Millennials.

We asked customers

Have you invested directly in cryptocurrencies or funds with exposure to crypto?

- Gen Z: 53%
- Millennials: 52%
- Gen X: 30%
- Boomers+: 10%

We asked financial leaders

What are your organization’s cryptocurrency plans?

- Plan to Invest in Cryptocurrency: 1%
- Plan to Offer Crypto Investment Alternatives: 6%
- Plan to Accept Cryptocurrency Like Cash: 2%
- No Crypto Plans: 76%
- Don’t Know: 15%
ESG and DEI

Having Environmental, Societal and Governance (ESG) and Diversity, Equity and Inclusion (DEI) strategies are more important than ever. Employees and customers now expect their financial organizations to be committed to these issues, especially Gen Z and Millennials.

We asked financial services leaders
How important is it for your organization to address ESG issues?

We asked customers
Is your primary financial services organization committed to ESG or DEI issues?

We asked customers
Would you switch financial services organizations for a higher commitment to DEI or ESG?
Channel Transformations

Branch and drive-up (human assisted) is predicted to decline as mobile and ATM usage increases. As a result, financial services organizations are adapting their services to better meet customer demand and digital expectations.

We asked customers

What is your projected channel usage 3 years from now?

Older generations are much more likely to open an account at the branch, while Gen Z and Millennials prefer opening one from their mobile app.

We asked customers

How do you prefer to open a deposit account?

We asked financial services leaders

What branch changes is your organization making?

BAI Insights

Our research has identified numerous trends and challenges that will impact financial services organizations in 2022 and beyond, and need the attention of financial services leaders, including:

Figuring Out the New Customer Normal

- By 2024, customers expect 61% of their banking business to be digital and 39% human-assisted with the biggest projected increases coming from mobile and ATM
- Gen Z showed the highest preference to open deposit accounts via their mobile phone
- Branches are still critical for many customers today and is the preferred method for opening deposits by Gen X and Boomers+

Increasing Competition

- Generations are changing rapidly, and Gen Z is less likely to use only one financial service organization
- Financial services organizations need to improve their CX and develop relationships rather than transactional business
- Loan growth is a top priority. In fact, our research shows that over half of financial services leaders are facing increased competition in this area.

Anticipation and Preparation

- The biggest business challenges for bankers in 2022 is improving the digital experience and new customer acquisition. Only 9% of bankers describe their digital customer experience as excellent.
- The younger the generation, the more they care about positive reputation, and want to know what their primary financial services organizations are doing in the areas of DEI and ESG
- The majority of Gen Z and Millennials are investing in crypto. Financial services leaders will need to decide if this presents an opportunity for their organizations.
